

I appreciate that the FCC is looking into limiting telemarketers, however, I would respectfully request that you allow states, such as Indiana, that all ready have such laws, to be exempt from your proposed action. Indiana has enacted a wonderful law that has resulted in far fewer unwanted contacts from telemarketers, and therefore should be allowed to continue in the path that has been set. The federal law, if approved in its present form, would actually weaken the protection given the residents of Indiana, by the state law. Please allow for such exemptions, and let Indiana govern it's own citizens in this matter. The voters of Indiana have consistently voted in favor of this law, so support us.
